

Transit Workers Demand Federal Lawmakers Take Action

To Bill Morneau, Minister of Finance

Canadians rely on transit workers everyday to move essential workers and people on essential trips. Public transit is an anchor of the national economy and every $1 of investment in public transit means $4 of economic growth in our communities. A full 91% of Canadians believe it's the government's responsibility to provide access to safe, reliable and affordable transit in Canada. We, Canadian transit workers, urge the federal government to provide $5 billion in annual funding for transit operations.
